About Wood's CRW

Wood's CRW Corp. is a customer service driven heavy construction equipment distributor that was founded in 1961 in South Burlington, Vermont. In an industry that has moved towards large publicly traded equipment rental houses, CRW continues to focus on equipment sales and product support. We excel because we have specialized sales and product support professionals who know how to reduce our customer's equipment operating costs, a key to every contractor's success. We accomplish this goal by using a partnership approach to customer service.

If CRW's customers are successful, CRW will be successful. Our three equipment divisions represent some of the best construction equipment available. We can assist in customer's decisions on outright purchase vs. leasing, trade-in evaluations, equipment maintenance cost, equipment applications and rate structures. Because we understand these three individual aspects of the construction equipment industry, we can put more on the table when it comes to your equipment purchase, rental or product support needs.
